THE "STANDARD" ON THE SUSPEN-SION OF SIR J. P. HENNESSY.

The Standard has the following article in its issue of the 29th December:-The suspension of Sir John Pope Hennessy is an event sensational enough to be an appropriate climax to the troubled episodes of his Colonial career. There have been instances in plenty of the recall or the super-session, with due formalities of a Governor whose Bix seamen belonging to the U.S. S. Monocacy | conduct failed to approve itself to his superiors at were brought up charged with being stragglers | Whitehall. But summary suspension as a result of local inquiry is fortunately an exceedingly rare, if not an absolutely, unprecedented, event in the annals of Colonial administration. We do not say that Sir Heroules Robinson was not justified in applying a stringent remedy to a state of affairs which, according to the information available, was too critical to admit of the ordinary processes of ours. Probably the step he has taken was contemplated in the instructions he received for his guidance in the discharge of his delicate mission. Sir John Pope Hennessy has yet to be heard in his own defence, and it would be unfair to conclude that he has no sufficient answer to his accusers. His warmest admirers, however, will admit that if he has been animated in his successive posts by the best of motives, he has been curiously infelicitous in his choice of means. In a Colonial Governor presistent misfortune amounts to as grave a disqualifloation as proved incapacity, and it will not be denied that Sir John Pope Hennessy has been uniformly unhappy in his relations with the European communities over whom he has been called upon to preside. He may plead at any rate, his friends have already pleaded for him-that he was a sincere and uncompromising friend of champion of native grievances, and he has had posed to allow that he has ever won the confidence—of those who are zealous for what are absurdly called the "rights of the aborigines." Whether the smallest good has ever come to his protégés from these erratio demonstrations of official sympathy is an exceedingly disputable point; but that the Governor has always left worse than he found them is undeniable. There have been many other administrators, just as philanthropic and just as sentimental, who have contrived to benefit the native element without inflaming the passions and earning the resentment of the Europeans. They have sometimes The P. and O. steamer Ganges, with the Eng. felt it their duty to impose unpalatable restrictions on the employment of labour, or to sheck the tendency of the whites to domineer. What his place would have been in the subsequent developments of Irish Party life is not now a matter of interest-Nationalist tendencies there would unquestionably have been some serious breaches in the harmony of the Parnellite Party. He was induced, however, to bestow the benefit of his peculiarly The semi-official Journal de St. Petersburg Hibernian talents upon the fortunes of the ments. But the squabbles, and worse than squab-Indies and at Hongkong are so fresh in everyone's recollection as to obscure what is better and worthier in his career. The fault, it must be The Times, in its issue this morning, states frankly admitted, was not wholly his. His temperament was well known, and the Colonial Office must have been aware that, as regards Hongkong, he was the very worst possible man that could be chosen for the place. But in matters of patronage the Colonial Office often acts in a very blind fashion. There are a cortain number of posts and a certain number of people with claims; if an official fails in one colony, the tradition is that he must be trans-Hennessy there was one place for which he was even less suited than Hongkong. LORD CARNARVON ON THE DE-FENCE OF OUR COALING STATIONS.

The following is Lord Carnaryon's letter to the Times on the defence of our coaling stations.— Though we wait for explanations of the resignation of the late Chancellor of the Exchequer, yet sufficient has transpired to make it clear that the defence of our conling stations shrond and of our commercial ports at home is involved in the controversy. So very grave does this questi n appear to me, that with your leave I would make some observations on it; and if it be thought beyond the province of a civilian to speak confidently on a subject into which so many is entirely built of Seimen's Martin Steel, and professional considerations enter, I can only reply that I was for three years chairman of the Commission for the Defence of British Possessions and Commerce Abroad, and that I have spared neither time nor trouble in forming an independent opinion. I omit now all reference to the with triple expansion ongines capable of indefence of the home ports or of the Imperial fortresses of Gibraltar, Malta, Halifax, and Ber-

The Commission were unanimously agreed on two main points at least—first, the extreme peril to our Navy and our commerce from leaving and aft H girders. The 'tween deck is laid of those stations undefended; secondly, the general mode of that defence. As regards this last, they decks are fitted good berths for all officers, onmade various recommendations, and they estim- gineers, crew. &c., and abaft a watertight bulkated the cost of them at a very reasonable figure. head is fitted the first-class dining saloon and It is, of course, impossible to enter upon the de- berths for passengers, with staircase to upper tails of a confidential document; but I may say dock, whereon there is a large house containing that, as far as I know; our recommendations the first-class entrance and smoke room and h ve substantially stood the test of professional special state rooms. Amidships is the steeringe titeism, and have in the main secured the house and captain's cabin, with a bridge over assent of suggessive Governments, even those which were most anxious to distinguish themselves by military and naval economy. Mr. Gladstone's Government of 1884, Lord Salisbury's of quirements, have been most successfully planned. can neither fight nor move; and even with it there is no security, unless it is adequately protected, for it becomes the prey of the first hostile

On the other hand, our Empire, scattered as it is, has this advantage—that we hold a succession of defensible points, where our ships can find ports in which to coal, to refit, to repair, whence the great lines of commercial communication can be patrolled or guarded, and where a base of operations against an enemy can be secured. Further, the defence of these positions means not only all these advantages to us, but the loss of them to our foes; and therefore these stations are in one sense almost as necessary as position has hitherto relieved us from the burden of maintaining armies on an European scale: but our Continental neighbours are no longer content with a military predominance on land. The maritime rivalry of France is, to say the least, very serious; and while we grudge a few hundred thousand pounds for the defence of our coaling stations, France has commenced an estimated expenditure of £3,000,000 on one alone of her foreign outposts. I need not, however, enlarge on this, for I do not believe that there is any competent judge who will dispute my

Now of these coaling stations, while all are important, some are more important than others, and while some are being fortified by the voluntary efforts of our great self-governing colonies, others must almost entirely depend upon the action of the Imperial Government. It is rather a complicated question. The Australian colonies have done much for themselves, and the fortification of Sydney and Melbourne, while essential to the safety of these great towns, also secures for Last year's New Malwa... $540 per picul, alice, of the Queen's ships coals and arsenals and all that fore made on us here nor are we required to vantages. But there are other stations which Benares (New)$520 " are necessary for the protection of our commerce -such as Hongkong, Singapore, Adeu-and the mercantile communities which have sprung up in some of these places are able and willing to bear their share of the expense. Roughly speaking, the agreement is that they should provide the works and that the Home Government should furnish the armaments, and it generally happens that the Government is the last to complete its part of the bargain. In the present instance the highest praise is due to Hongkong and Singapore. Theone has, I believe, spent more than | ON PARIS. £100,000, the other nearly that sum, upon their respective works; but the Imperial contribution of guns is yet wanting at Singapore. [Also]

at Hongkong.-ED. D.P. Progress, therefore, has been made at these and some other places, though mostly at the expense of the local communities; but with strange procrastination the effective defence of the Cane, hy far our most important station, has been left neglected, and even its details are as yet undecided. As far as I can understand the case, the Cape Government have some just On Shanghai.cause of complaint for the manner in which their overtures have been met, for while unable, like I their richer fellow-subjects in Australia, to undertake the entire defence of their principal port, they have, though mainly Dutch in their extraction, shown no unwillingness to bear a reasonable share in the work. Be this, however, as it may, the Cape is the great halfway house between England and the East, and as an alternative to the Suez route is, perhaps, even of more importance to us than all the other stations | China Traders' Insurance Company's Shareswhich we own. So important did the Commisurge on the Government immediate action. 1881, and we are new in January, 1887. Something, indeed, has been done, but, unless supple | On Tai Insurance Company, Limited-Tls. 148 mented by something else, that "something, is like a house with two doors, and it is useless to close one if the other is left open to an enemy. Simon's Bay, on the west of the peninsula, is the other. Simon's Bay, which is used by the Admiral as a convenient anchorage, is now fairly defended at Imperial cost for purely Imperial purposes; but Table Bay and Capotown are without a vestige of protection. On the shores of that bay colonial and commercial enterprise have been busy. Large floating basins and jetties, a fine breakwater, a graving dock, workshops, coal stores with appliances for coaling and Douglas Steamship Company, Limited-$46 del-os. repairing, have sprung into existence—an inof the future. Yet this great creation, a source resources in time of war, lies during some temporary absence of our fleet at the mercy of a China Sugar Refining Company, Limited-$131 single orniser.

I have spoken only of the Cape, and I have singled it out as an illustration, though the most important one, of the whole question; but when I state that a period of about two years is required from the ordering of a gun of the new type to its delivery abroad, and when I add that -so far as I know—nothing has yet been decided as to the apportionment of the cost of the Capsconstructed to hold that armament. I think you will agree with me that not another day of delay should be added to the long term of fruitless panic of Russian hostilities, a few earthworks guns were despatched. But the hot fit passed, the cold succeeded; the temporary defences have become useless in the altered conditions of modern gunnery, and only exist as a monument of Imperial inefficiency and waste. I will not here inquire into the causes of this delay: whether the excessive pressure of business on a Minister, or the conflict of departments, or the natural desire of the Treasury to measure public requirements by the sole measure of arithmetic or the tendency to subordinate distant objects, however important, to near objects, however small, or the almost hopeless difficulty under our Parliamentary system of providing the necessary means if they are borne on the annual estimates, I will not here argue. One thing only is clear, that decision and action

> NEW COMBINED CRUISER AT TELEGRAPH CABLE STEAMER FOR CHINA.

This exceptional vessel, reference to which we made in our last issue, (says the London and China Express of the 7th January), now being built by Messrs. William Doxford and Sons, of Sunderland, for the China Telegraph service, is a departure which we gladly welcome, and is one which no doubt will be greatly adopted in future, as there are great advantages in having merchant vessels suitably constructed to serve as armed oruisers in case of need. This vessel is 220ft. long, 32ft. beam, and 20ft. deep, and will have a register tennage of about 1,000 tens gross. She classed 100Al at Lloyd's, and in addition she has the whole of her shell-plating of three-quarter inch steel, which is thoroughly backed up by necessary intercastal plates. &c., making in all an exceptionally strong vessel. She is fitted dicating 1,100 horse-power, giving a speed of 13 knots per hour. The cable is carried in muda, and I confine myself to the coaling three tanks, two being forward and one aft. These tanks are built in the usual way (of iron) and carried on specially constructed floor plates, and the deck over thom is strengthened by foresteel, and the upper deck of wood. The windless is a direct steam, and is of a special design, with the cable lifters widely spaced, so that the gun stands between them and can be worked without in any way interfering with the working of the vessel. Aft the usual steering gear is displaced by a powerful hand gear on the wheel and pinion principle, placed forward of the gun, and clear of it, and connected to a special tiller by leads and chains. A special clutch arrangement is fitted to the tiller to facilitate change from hand to steam steering, which can be done in a second or two. The after gun has then the whole of the after deck clear for working, and has an all round fire up to 68 degrees before the beam. These guns are carried on cylinders ships and guns, for without them ships and 5ft. in diameter, built of steel in the 'tween decks, guns may easily be rendered useless. > > FOST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ____, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

LOCAL DELIVERY-No delivery is attempted on board Ship, at the Peak, Kowloon, Aberdeen, &c., nor at any private house (even though named in the address) when there is a place of business nearer, at which delivery can be effected.
